On Friday, October 9, 2026, Mainstream Technologies' servers were impacted by a cyber security incident. Mainstream Technologies is a third party vendor that hosts the Community Corrections Information and Billing System (CCIB), utilized by the Colorado Division of Criminal Justice (DCJ). When discovered, as a precaution, the vendor deactivated all of its hosted platforms, including CCIB. On Saturday, October 10, Mainstream notified the state of the incident. At this time, there is no indication that CCIB data has been accessed. The CCIB system is currently unavailable as this incident is investigated thoroughly.

DCJ is working closely with Mainstream Technologies, third-party specialists, and appropriate state cybersecurity and technology officials to assess the impact and safely restore services as quickly as possible. Restoration requires specialists to verify that systems can operate securely before bringing them back online. As we continue to work closely with our team and Mainstream Technologies, we will provide updates as verified information becomes available, including any changes to the processing plan.

Billing and background check processing through CCIB is expected to be paused until at least November 1, 2026, to allow a thorough review of the impacts of this incident.

If the system remains unavailable on that date, DCJ will provide all users with step-by-step instructions for an interim process outside CCIB.

We recognize that this interruption may affect your operations and ability to meet deadlines. If waiting until November 1 creates a time-sensitive concern, contact valarie.schamper@state.co.us. While we cannot guarantee accommodation, we are working to establish alternatives in the meantime.
